We think we know things and prefer to feel instead of think about our lives. That's why we know many things that aren't true. Such as Judas' story: ho hum, another act of betrayal. Or was it? Judas is the story of a man who assists his best friend to commit suicide to prevent his backing out of it. What? An assisted suicide? Or did Jesus simply fear his – our - human nature? A month or two later, Jesus' other friends revealed their agenda: they claimed Jesus didn't die; that he even appeared to many people – themselves and others; but he never did to Judas. Why not? And who betrayed whom? Did Jesus betray Judas? Judas is a biographical novel and is fact-based fiction utilizing the most recent historical and psychiatric findings to challenge discerning 21st century readers.
